Chrysler Cars Capture Three First Place Awards

Chrysler captured 3 first place awards in the 1952 Los Angeles to San Valley Economy Run Sweepstakes, the American Automobile Association announced.

In addition, Chrysler won 2 second place awards in the run, which took the cars over a 1,450-mile roller coaster course through four states, with stretches ranging from 70 feet below sea level to 8,010 feet above.

All the Chrysler cars entered in the race were strictly stock cars taken by the AAA from dealer showrooms and none were equipped with overdrive.

From mountains to desert the drivers experienced every highway and weather condition that might be encountered by the average motorist in a "week of driving" it was pointed out by D. A. Wallace, president of Chrysler Division, Chrysler Corporation.

First in classes F, H and I were scored by:

Chrysler Saratoga, 6-passenger sedan scored 49.17 ton miles.
Chrysler Saratoga, 3-passenger sedan scored 50.57 ton miles.
Chrysler Crown Imperial Sedan scored 53.47 ton miles.
The Chrysler Imperial was second in class G, scoring 52.18 ton miles. All these cars were powered by Chrysler FirePower 180 horsepower V-8 engine.

The Chrysler Windsor, powered by a 119 Horsepower 6-cylinder engine, was second in class D, scoring 45.97 ton miles.

The winners were determined by the ton miles per gallon system. To give all cars in the run an equal chance, the weight of the car and passengers was multiplied by the number of miles traveled and the result divided by the number of gallons of gasoline consumed.

The cars competed in their own price class. Each vehicle carried the driver, a relief driver, an American Automobile association observer, and one other passenger.

The cars averaged 40.84 miles per hour throughout the run.

Extension Service Director Clay Lyle said the rainfall was worth millions literally to the state's cotton, pastures and corn. The state's agriculture was on the verge of a critical water shortage when the rain came. Lyle said the rain did not alter the extension service estimate that 30 per cent of Mississippi's cotton must be replanted. The cotton was already dead, he said.

DEADLY WEAPON IN U.S.

Mathematically made automobiles in the hands of careless drivers have become one of the most deadly weapons in the United States, that is according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Council, which will crown the winners for the most dangerous car in the country for the year.

That was the blunt declaration of Chief Sear, Jackson Harrison, Executive Vice President of the National Highway Traffic Safety Council, who declared that "this rash, pell-mell attitude is the greatest single hazard the racing motorist creates for himself, and this is coupled to the dangers created by the fact most automobiles are being driven with some faulty mechanism."

At the same time, A. S. Windham, Executive Director of the Safety Council, cautioned vacationers that it isn't where you go but how you go that can spell the difference between a safe, pleasant vacation or an unpleasant, tragic experience that will not only mar your vacation but your entire life, or the life of a loved one.

"Operation Safety" should be the vacationer's motto, according to the two Safety Officials. They explain that leisurely, safe and pleasant driving should be an integral part of any trip or planned vacation.

Both officials emphasized the dangers of the unfamiliarity with out-of-state traffic laws and speed limits, unfamiliarity with types of topography not encountered in the home state, and recklessness inspired both by a feeling of festivity and the belief that a certain amount of leniency is to be expected from the police of the state.

"The vacationist who wants to be sure of coming home in one piece," declared Windham, "is the motorist who drives through the state that he is visiting with the same self-conscious regard for safety and courtesy that he would practice in his home state."

To make cars and drivers last longer, thus inspiring a pleasant, memorable vacation, the Safety Council Officials are urging careful inspection of the automobile and also the traffic laws of the state which they plan to visit.

Captain Windham said the following check-points should be made of automobiles before attempting to make a lengthy trip or vacation:

Brakes—must stop car in 30 feet from 20 miles per hour and take hold evenly on all wheels. Lights—headlights at level to give maximum illumination with minimum glare. Tires—keep at proper inflation and replace if fabric shows or there are cuts and breaks. Steering and Wheel Alignment—uneven tire wear and excessive play through mechanical check.

Windows, Defroster and Windshield Wipers—good visibility is an absolute necessity to good operation.

WELFARE NOTES...

By J. A. THIGPEN, COMMISSIONER STATE DEPT. PUBLIC WELFARE

Why Only $30 in Mississippi?

The above question is often raised by recipients of welfare checks, as well as by the general public. Attention is called to the fact that $50 is received in Louisiana, $100 in California, that there are no children's responsibility scales, and other such things.

Well, poor people can't have as much of material things as their rich cousins have. They may have as much of health, time, sunshine, rain and all things that God gives, but not as much of the material things as those with more money income.

Up until the time of the Honorable Hugh White's first administration, politicians ran for office on the platform that corporations with more than a million dollars were iniquitous and of the devil; that Mississippi is a poor man's state and we wanted to keep it that way. The Legislature had even passed a law which would not allow a corporation with more than a million dollars to operate in the state. Consequently, the Standard Oil Company located at Baton Rouge instead of Natchez.

The Great Southern Lumber Company located at Bogalusa instead of Columbia, even though their timber was mostly in Mississippi. They divided their timber holdings among their directors at a little less than a million dollars each and built their mill in Louisiana.

We now have to entice industries with a BAWI plan because in the early 1900's we shut the door in their faces. We are still a poor man's state, and because of that we cannot pay our teachers, our employees, or our old people as much as our neighbors pay theirs. Until now we have had no large cities, no steel production, no large factories, and only recently have we had oil production, sulphur, salt, and other minerals.

Our two-year budget of 162 million is the largest in history but it is small in comparison with Louisiana's over 600 millions. Figure in proportion Mississippi's $30 would be equal to $130 in Louisiana. Therefore, in proportion, Mississippi is doing more than Louisiana for her old people. Poor folks just can't match their rich cousins in the total amount of money they have to give.

This department is going to do the very best it can with the amount of money available to relieve the needs of the less fortunate. We shall appreciate your friendly cooperation.

Gov. Byrnes Urges South To Maintain States' Rights Unity

Cleveland, Miss. (Special)—Governor James F. Byrnes of South Carolina issued a stirring call to the people of the South to remain loyal to the principles of States' Rights, in an address here before the Delta Council.

Reminding his audience of the common interests and outlooks shared by Mississippians and South Carolinians, he urged that the people of all Southern states maintain a determined political harmony.

"Today some persons are saying that the political leaders of the South feared: would happen did not actually occur. That was not the fault of those now in control of the National Democratic Party. During the past four years the National Democratic Administration has been more antagonistic toward the South than any Republican Administration since the Reconstruction period. On several occasions the Democratic Administration has urged Congress to enact laws which would suppress state laws and adverse to the interests of the South."

He continued, "Why should we vote to place in power any person so antagonistic to us that in advance we must plan to save ourselves from a coalition with legislators of an opposite party as a filibuster?"

"It cannot be said that we have no alternative because the Republican Party favors many of the objectionable proposals of those now in control of the Democratic Party. We are not forced to affiliate with either of those national parties. If we do not receive sympathetic consideration from the National Democratic Party which we have loyally supported throughout the years, we can support the candidates of a third party."

The speaker stressed in this country a respect of the white people of the Southern states. He urged the dignity of the people and the dignity of the South as a whole. "We have won the right of the people of the South to be treated as equals in the eyes of the law."

He urged the people of the South to maintain their unity and to stand together in the face of the attacks of the National Democratic Administration. "We are not a united people unless we stand together in the face of the attacks of the National Democratic Administration."

and Republican parties. "If we act in concert with other Southern states," the Governor said, "and let the leaders of both political parties know we are no longer 'in the bag' of any political party, our views will no longer be ignored."

Byrnes spoke briefly of the 1948 Democratic convention in Philadelphia, at which time a positive declaration of the doctrine of States' Rights was rejected by the party. As a result, he said, more than a million Democrats cast their votes for a third party, and the electors of four states cast their votes for that third ticket.

"That other Southern states followed that course," the former Secretary of State continued, "the election would have been thrown into the House of Representatives. In the House, each state would have cast two votes. Mississippi and South Carolina would have cast the same number of votes that were cast by New York and Pennsylvania."

Prattville Senator Russell of Georgia, to whom South Carolina's Democratic Governor is pledged, Governor Byrnes described him as a man of "exceptional character and courage. As chairman of the Appropriations Committee having charge of agricultural appropriations, he has demonstrated an understanding of and sympathy with the agricultural problems of all sections of this country. He has always been fair to labor organizations and unorganized. As chairman of the Armed Services Committee, he has supported an adequate military program."

Citing the fact that Russell is respected by Republicans and Democrats in the Congress, Byrnes declared that the Georgia Senator would be a great asset to the South if he were in the United States Senate.

Byrnes urged the people of the South to support the candidates of the National Democratic Party who are loyal to the principles of States' Rights. "We are not a united people unless we stand together in the face of the attacks of the National Democratic Administration."

1952 TUNG NUT CROP WILL BREAK RECORD, IS CLAIM

BOGALUSA, La.—The 1952 tung nut crop will break all records, Dr. George Foster, principal physiologist at the U.S. Tung Nut Investigating Laboratory in Bogalusa, said.

Though not an authority on crop estimates, Dr. Foster said from his observations and from laboratory reports, the 1952 crop will be from 15 to 20 per cent higher than the 1949 crop of 27,000 tons throughout the United States.

The Louisiana Crop Reporting Service in New Orleans said official estimates of this year's crop have not been made and the official total will not be published until July, 1953, the date of the annual crop report.

Dr. Foster said more than 65 per cent of the tung nuts grown in the United States are produced in Louisiana and Mississippi.

He stated that the 1951 crop produced in Mississippi was not affected by the killing frost from late in Louisiana and reached 32,000 tons. Louisiana produced 2,200 tons that year.

However, Dr. Foster said the year following a killing frost tends to be a better one and the trees bear heavily. This year in Louisiana trees in the older orchards are larger and many new orchards have come into bearing.

One of the nation's tung nut plants are in Louisiana and two are in Mississippi. The Mississippi plant is at Bogalusa, La., and the Louisiana plant is at New Orleans.

The tung nut is a hard, round nut, about the size of a walnut, and is used in the manufacture of tung oil, which is used in the manufacture of varnishes and paints.

A "Must" for New Industry

New industries coming to Mississippi demand many services. Chief among them is one that's customarily taken for granted—the telephone!

Responding to the demands of growing industry and the increasing prosperity of the state, Southern Bell has carried on a vast program of expansion and improvement. By six years of hard work and the expenditure of over 60 million dollars, we have more than doubled telephone facilities. Mississippians are served now by approximately a quarter of a million telephones in place of the 115 thousand they had in 1945, and service is better.

Today, despite shortages of many materials, we are continuing to extend our system and improve our service to Mississippi cities and rural areas. Day by day we grow in ability to serve industries, homes and farms... and to expedite today's most important job—National Defense.

SELF-RELIANCE VERSUS GOVERNMENT HANDOUTS

A few years ago there was a story circulating from Florida and going the rounds about what the water state had done to a flock of seagulls down in the southern state. It seems that a tremendous school of large (jumbo) shrimp had been discovered off the tip of Florida. Shrimp boats from North Carolina to Texas moved in upon the large school of this newly discovered variety of shrimp. They concentrated their operations at Key West.

Now, it is a matter of common knowledge along the Gulf Coast that after the catch is made the boats steer back to their base; the fishermen busily begin to sort the shrimp from the thousands of small fish that are taken in the trawls. They throw these small fish overboard; and it is a common sight to see flocks of seagulls following the vessels, diving down into the water and picking up this easy source of food. So according to the story the seagulls in that area also concentrated around Key West gaining their subsistence and getting an easy living from these small fish caught by the shrimpers. They lived this easy way of life and soon became dependent thereon, no longer doing their own more laborious fishing. They no longer had to work; they no longer used their talent and natural instincts to live.

Then came the end of Utopia for these birds of prey. The tremendous school of shrimp gradually moved westward.

Thus the source of livelihood for the seagulls suddenly disappeared. The story has it that the birds held a protest meeting. Many of them were indignant in their denunciation of the politicians who had robbed them of their source of livelihood. Finally one old seagull got the floor and said: "Now, I'm not for this appeal to Washington. I remember when we had to work for a living. We were sleek, fast, physically fit and rugged. We were happy then. But came the easy life when we didn't have to work for a living. You are spoiled, and it's your own fault. Let's go back to making our living the way God expected us to. Let's no longer be softies, sluggish, and expecting somebody else to do our work and make our living for us. Let's go back to the sea and make our living for ourselves!"

Well, the other day there was a parallel story—a true story—out of the Far North. It began: "Government handouts have destroyed the initiative and independence of Eskimos once renowned for vigorous self-dependence in the far north, authorities on Eskimo life reported."

The story went on to say that deterioration of morale and health among the Eskimos, under the white man's socialistic system, was a chief concern at a conference in Ottawa, attended by Arctic missionaries, Mounted Police and government representatives.

Eskimos now tend to concentrate at posts where they receive government handouts, it was disclosed.

"There has been a constant decline in their vitality and resistance to disease," the report continued.

"The inclination of some Eskimos to depend on government aid has lessened their desire to seek game and food in outlying areas."

And so it is—whether seagulls or Eskimos—or any of us for that matter. Life in a welfare state is often a hoax and a delusion.

TOLLS TO GO

The bridge over the Mississippi river connecting Natchez and Vidalia, La., will become toll free September 26. At a meeting last week of state highway officials from both states with the bridge commission, the mayors of Natchez and Vidalia, the group agreed to take the toll gates from the bridge and allow both state highway departments to maintain the bridge. The bridge was built in 1939 at a total cost of four million dollars. It takes $36,000 per month in tolls.

ARMED FORCES DAY

President Truman has designated Saturday, May 17 as Armed Forces Day and directed all Government officials to cooperate with civil authorities in proper commemorative ceremonies. The proclamation also invited governors to arrange celebrations in honor of members of the armed forces and asked all citizens to display the flag on that day.

Shown above is Mrs. J. L. Selsby, Sweepstakes Winner at the Hancock County Home Demonstration Vegetable and Flower show, held at the REA building May 28.

Mrs. Selsby won more ribbons than any other contestant.
